THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION.

A National Convention of the Republican party will meet at Chicago Wednesday, the 2d day of June next, for the nomination of candidates to be supported for President and Vice President at the next election.

Republicans, and all who will co-operate with them in supporting the nominees of the party, are invited to choose two delegates from each Congressional District, four at large from each State, two from each Territory, and two from the District of Columbia, to represent them in the convention.

J. D. CAMERON, Chairman.

THOMAS B. KEOUGH, Secretary.

The best known example of fraud, selfishness, and trickery, is the Sage of Gramercy Park.

There will be no unit rule at the Chicago Convention. The gag principle will not be allowed to control that body.

The Democrats will be under the necessity of making as graceful a surrender to Mr. Tilden at Cincinnati as possible.

The only way for the Democrats to throw off the burden which Tilden has placed upon them, is to nominate him at Cincinnati. That would kill him and destroy the mortage.

Blaine was not defeated in Wisconsin because the Republicans have lost confidence in him, but because they regard Washburn a stronger man and one who can solidify and harmonize the party.

The Democrats were badly disappointed because the Republican State Convention did not kick up a row. There was too much soberity and intelligence in that body to meet the hopes of our Democratic friends.

The Democratic State Convention will meet in Madison next Wednesday. There will be no scruples as to who shall be delegates to Cincinnati. The Convention will be held just for show, to "make believe" that the party is not dead in Wisconsin.

The Blaine men in the State have not yet got over their surprise at the "unexpected strength" of the Washburn element in Wisconsin. They will be more surprised than ever when the Chicago Convention meets. As much as Blaine is to be admired, he is not the coming man.

Out of twenty delegates to the R. publican National Convention from this State, Grant has one. The Inter Ocean says this is better than could have been expected under the circumstances! One would suppose that such grapes were sour enough to set its children's teeth on edge to the fourth and fifth generations."

The fifteenth annual meeting of the Southern Wisconsin sheep-breeders, and wool-growers-association was held at Caldwell's Prairie, Racine county, on Wednesday. There were over 2,000 people present to witness the shearing and the awarding of prizes. Only two classes of sheep were exhibited—the Delano merino and the American or heavy wool merino. The heaviest fleece obtained was twenty-seven pounds from a four-year-old ram.

In the past year the Republican party of this State has received to its ranks Mr. August Kickbusch, of Marathon county, one of the wealthiest Germans in Wisconsin, and a man of high standing in that part of the State. He trained with the Democrats till last year, when he became disgusted with their frauds, trickery, cowardice, and dishonesty, and determined to quit them forever. He at once joined the Republican party, and was a member of the late Republican State Convention. The Republicans may justly feel proud of this new member, and Mr. Kickbusch takes a pride in his new political home.

The selection of Hon. J. B. Cassiday, of this city, as a delegate at large, to the Republican National Convention, is a deserving compliment to that gentleman, and an honor to the Convention which paid him that compliment. Among all the prominent men in the State, there are none of whom have more of public confidence than Mr. Cassiday. He is one of the men who is as true as steel at all times, whose integrity never falters, whose judgment is never warped by prejudice, and whose Republicanism is of that type which commands the deepest respect and the utmost confidence of his party. It is very likely that Mr. Cassiday will be made Chairman of the Wisconsin delegation.

The Gazette recently published the result of the historical researches of a philosopher, to the effect that the approaching conjunction of several planets in a sure precursor of tornadoes, earthquakes, pestilence, and conflagrations—that it forebodes national disquietude, social disruption, and political turbulence. If this philosopher's views and logic are sound, it is probable that the first evidence of the general disturbance and the first step toward national disaster, will be the election of a Democratic President. In the train of this result there would quickly follow upheavals in the South, uncertainty in the North, restlessness among the ignorant Democratic hordes in the large cities, anxiety on the part of good citizens everywhere—all leading without doubt, to a state of anarchy. Nothing is needed, however, but wisdom in the Republican party to avert the possibility of such a calamity.

The platform adopted by the Republican State Convention is a model of brevity and perspicuity. In less than fifty lines it enumerates the beneficial influence

WILL SETTLE IT.

The Vote of Illinois Will Settle the Question at Chicago.

WASHINGTON, May 6—General Grant's friends were never so hopeful as they are to day. Senator Cameron remarked this afternoon: "You may telegraph to the Republicans of Illinois that all depends upon them now. If Illinois gives Grant her forty-two votes his nomination is assured."

That is the feeling among all the Grant men, and the supporters of Blaine are correspondingly discouraged. They will send out during announcements of their gains in New Hampshire, New Jersey, and Delaware, in order to keep up the courage of their fellow-workers in Illinois, but private reports received here are convincing that the results in New Jersey and New Hampshire are not so flattering as even Grant's friends conceded they would be.

The development of Grant's strength in both these States surprised the adherents of both candidates, and some of the delegates of each of those States will probably vote for Grant. Senator Bruce has received a telegram from Mississippi, from one of the most reliable and well informed Republicans in that State, who says that the delegation is divided—six for Grant and Sheriman, each, and four for Blaine. A resolution declaring General Grant the choice of the State was passed. It was expected by nearly everybody here that the Mississippi delegation would be instructed for Sherman. Senator Bruce, a warm Grant advocate, heads the delegation and has a great deal of influence with it. The entire delegation will probably vote for Grant on the first ballot.

WON'T STAND IT.

The Philadelphia Delegation Will Not Vote for Grant Under Any Circumstances—The Unit Rule for Grant Will Not Work in Pennsylvania.

NEW YORK, May 7.—A Washington special says: "Mr. McManus of Philadelphia, was in town to-day to inform Mr. Cameron that ten of the twelve Philadelphia

City delegates to Chicago had determined

they would not vote for the ex-President under any circumstances. He told Mr.

Cameron further that if he at tempted to enforce the unit rule on the delegation at Chicago he would find himself of the minority, with the majority of the delegation against him, and he advised and urged him to make known to the delegation that he gave up the unit rule.

To this Mr. Cameron is said to have replied curtly that the unit rule had been agreed to, and that he expected to stand it himself and hold the delegation to it. McManus returned to Philadelphia this afternoon, and he represented to some of his friends, before going,

that there were no further relations between Mr. Cameron and himself—that is to say, he does not mean to be bullied or coaxed. The excitement among Pennsyl-vianas here is quiet but intense.

GENERAL GRANT.

He Arrives in Galena—Will Visit Milwaukee June 9th.

GALENA, May 6—The special train bearing General Grant, Mrs. Grant, Miss

Kinnon, and General McNulta, of Bloomington, arrived in Galena at 6 o'clock this evening. They were welcomed by a few intimate friends, and at once took carriages for the Grant residence, on the hill.

Colonel Pier, President of the Wisconsin Soldiers' Reunion Association; Captain D. N.

Kasson, Secretary of the joint committee of the Milwaukee Chamber of Commerce, the Milwaukee Merchants' Association, and the Wisconsin Soldiers' Association, accompanied by Major Routledge, of Platteville, and General W. R. Hawley, of Galena, paid General Grant a visit this evening for the purpose of extending him an official invitation to attend the Wisconsin soldiers' reunion at Milwaukee, June 7 to 12. The invitation was accepted, and June 9 fixed as the date of his arrival at Milwaukee. He will leave Galena for Chicago on the morning of June 8, and on the following day he will go to Milwaukee, accompanied by General Sheridan.

Whittaker expresses himself as perfectly satisfied with the way the investigation has been conducted. Being asked: "Suppose the Court should decide against you, would you not be degraded?" he answered, "I might in the eyes of the world, but not in my own eyes or in the eyes of those who know me."

The court has been in session nineteen days, and 311 witnesses have been examined. Deducting the officers, cadets, privates, employees, and drummer boys, there is still a number of witnesses entitled to mileage and $4 a day. The experts in handwriting rate their opinions at $100 a day.

Whittaker recites many letters of sympathy. One was received two days ago signed "Mother of Cadet." Speaking of this, he said: "But wasn't it strange she did not sign her name, so that I might know who her son is? It is very clear her for writing it and would not speak to me."

H. A. PATTERSON, P. M.

THAT MORTGAGE.

BY MRS. ANNA M.

"Well, Sarah, I guess you will have to give up that visit to your mother till next year."

This was said with much indifference by Farmer Brown as if Mrs. Brown had not been living on the anticipation of this visit for the last six months.

"Why, James, what has happened now to prevent my going?" said Mrs. Brown, as she sank down, pale and trembling, in the nearest chair.

"Nothing in particular," said the nonchalant husband, "but it don't look just exactly right, does it, for you to go off on a visit, when the farm is still mortgaged and we have another payment to make on the last eighty I bought."

Mr. Brown might have told him that she had begged him with many tears, not to buy the last eighty until they were ready to pay for it; she also might have told him that the $100 sent her last year from her mother, to make this visit, had been, through his persuasions, given up to pay the interest on the mortgage; and many promises given by him in return that she should go this year. She did not, however, tell him any of these things, as she had found out, by past experience that al though her husband was not a cross man, and never got out of that even placidly of temper, that it was utterly impossible to make him realize that she needed anything besides enough to eat and wear. Mrs. Brown only sat as if stunned for a few minutes, and then concluded to make one more feeble effort. She felt she could not give up this chance to see her mother, perhaps for the last time.

"I think James could almost make up what my visit would cost by a little closer economy after I get back," said the incorrigible James.

Mrs. Brown sighed a gentle sigh, as she thought it was hard to conceive where she could economize more, but she only said: "I had thought probably we could do without a sister one more year."

"I think myself," said Mr. Brown with alacrity, "that we can do very well without that sister another year, but that would not more than half pay for your visit, so I hope you will say no more about it, as we will have to stay at home and live very close till that mortgage is paid off."

Mr. Brown got up and walked out, and Mrs. Brown went to the kitchen to get dinner, feeling as if all the ill from Pandora's box pursued her, and not even hope remained to cheer her way.

Mrs. Brown was too weak, incapable woman, to be dismayed at trifles, but her mother was old and had been paralyzed for years, making it impossible for her to visit her children, and the chores were growing less for them to be ever reunited this side of the tomb. Uncomplainingly, however, she took up this last burden with less spirit and strength than she had for many years. She did up her work for the day, after all the rest of the family were safely sleeping, wrote the following letter to her mother:

"My dear Mother:—I am sad to have to write and tell you that I cannot visit you this fall—I know (measuring your disappointment by my own) that it is almost cruel to tell you so,—but James is so involved, and you know the interest on that mortgage almost eats up the profits on the farm, and he thinks it ought to postpone visiting you for another year at least. Mother, you know I always taught me that what was to my husband's interest was also to mine, so I can now only be a heart of love and many regrets. From your dutiful daughter,

SARAH BROWN.

Nevertheless, before James had deposited the letter in the office he bought him a new newspaper that was quite an improvement on the old one, and as Sarah had given up her visit he might as well have it as not. Sarah dragged around doing the work for three or four men during most of the summer, canning fruit, milking and making butter from three or four cows, with no late improved cook stove or patent woman helper, and only a girl that James had taken from the Orphans' home to assist her, until by fall she was pretty well used up.

When James went for the doctor he said his wife was a little mopy, but he would give her something to tone up he thought she would be all right in a few days. She did not get any better, however, but went into a low grade of typhoid fever, which had entire possession of her when she received the fatal letter that her mother had died calling for her first born child, her patient, loving Sarah.

Mother and daughter were reunited, but not on earth. James buried his wife with apparently an utter unconsciousness of having done any wrong to the dear, patient creature, who had given up everything in life for him, and when neighbors sympathized with him, he said devoutly, "The Lord loveth whom he chasteneth, and scourgeth every son and daughter."—Woman's Journal.

LACONICALLY TOLD.

The Story of Two Wounded Soldiers During the Late Unpleasantness.

From the Philadelphia Times.

Joe Parsons was a Baltimore boy, and a little rough, but with a good-hearted fellow and a brave soldier. He got badly wounded at Antietam, and then heroically disclosed the occurrence and was followed to some people who visited the hospital.

"What is your name?"
"Joe Parsons."
"What is the matter?"
"Bind as a bat; both eyes shot out."
"A what battle?"
"Antietam."
"How did it happen?"
"I was hit and knocked down and had to lie all night on the battle-field. The fight was renewed next day, and I was under fire. I could stand the pain, but could not see. I wanted to see or get out of the fire. I waited and listened, and presently heard a man groan near me. 'Haloo!' says I."

"Haloo yourself," says he.
"Who be you?" says he.
"A Yankee," says I.
"Well, I'm a Reb," says he.
"What's the matter?" says I.
"My leg's smashed," says he.
"Can you walk?" says I.
"No," says he.
"Can you see?" says I.
"Yes," says he.

"Well, I says I, 'you're a rebel, but I'll do you a little favor.'"
"What's that?" says he.
"My eyes are shot out," says I, "and if you'll show me the way I'll carry you out," says I.

"All right," says he.
"Crawl over here," says I; and he did.
"Now, old Butternut," says I, "get on my back, and he did.
"Go ahead," says he.
"Plot the way, says I, 'for I can't see a blessed thing.'

"Straight ahead," says he.
"The balls were a flyin' all around, and I trotted off and we were soon out of range."

"Bully for you," says he, "but you've shook my legs almost off."

"Take a drink," says he, holding up his canteen, and I took a nip.
"Now let us go on again," says he, "kind o' slowly," and I took him up and he did the navigation and I did the walkin'. After I had carried him nearly a mile and was almost dead, he said:

"Here we are; I'm down." Just then a voice said: "Haloo! Billy, where did you get that Bank?"

"Where are we?" says I.

"In the rebel camp, of course," says he; and d—n my buttons if that rebel hadn't ridden me a straight mile into the rebel camp. Next day McClellan's army advanced and took us both in, and then we shook hands and made it up; but it was a mean trick of him, don't you think so?"

Caution.

A WORD TO THOSE WHO USE POROUS PLASTERS. It is a universally acknowledged fact that BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTERS ARE SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS.

The great demand for them has caused a number of unscrupulous parties to make and sell worthless imitations under similar sounding names. As the market is flooded with inferior plasters selling at any price it is important for the consumer to know which is the best. It is well known that some of the cheap plasters have been examined and found to contain injurious ingredients which make them dangerous to use, causing paralysis and other diseases.

-Mr. J. B. Edmunds yesterday sold to J. V. Huguenin, Esq., of Janesville, Wisconsin, a half section of our very choice land located just outside of the town, for a farm of one of his sons. The young man will come here to live early next spring, and will proceed to open one of the best stock and grain farms in Clayton County.—Spencer [Iowa] Reporter.

-S. D. Pierce, the advance agent of the Robson & Crane comedy company, is in the city to-day scattering the advertising matter, and preparing the way for the coming of "Our Bachelors." The sale of tickets has already commenced at Moseley's, the date of the show being Thursday evening, May 13th. Those who miss this entertainment will lose one of the richest treats which has ever been presented to the amusement lovers of the city. That's so.

-It is a well known fact, long since established among printers, that the simple article of composition entering into the manufacture of printers' rollers, has more to do with the turning out of good work, than is embodied in any other article used in a printing office. Various methods of preparing the composition have been devised, and as a result, this article has been greatly improved in the past few years. We have used the composition made by different parties, and have yet to find a better article than is made by Mr. John Slichtam, of this city, foreman of the Gazette Printing Co.'s press room, and we cheerfully recommend it to our brethren of the craft.—Janesville Daily Times.

A NEW LINE.

Some of the members of Washington Engine Company No. 1 are providing themselves with electric alarm bells to inform them when it is time to turn out to squelch a blaze. Tom Mahon is superintending the work, and the wire is now stretched about three-quarters of a mile, and six bells are to be put into the line. Those who are putting in the alarm bells are John Erlinger, Will Brooks, Wall Briggs, George Airis, James Clark and James Sterer. As soon as the bells arrive the line will be put into active operation.

DEATH OF LOUIS HALVERSON.

Louis Halverson died about 1 o'clock this morning at the residence of his brother Martin Halverson, on Pleasant street. He had been ill for about two weeks with inflammation of the lungs, and for several days past he has known that he could not live, but appeared perfectly signed to his fate. Mr. Halverson has for some time been a painter in the Harris works, and had many acquaintances in this city. He had reached the age of thirty seven years, and was a single man. The remains were taken this afternoon to Racine county for interment in the family burial ground in Moskog.

THE THIRTEENTH REGIMENT.

Judge Lyon, of the Supreme Court, who was colonel of the 13th regiment, of Wisconsin volunteers, has issued the following notice, which he requests the papers in Rock, Walworth, Green, Jefferson, and Racine counties to publish:

To the Members of the Thirteenth Regiment Wisconsin Volunteers:

You are cordially invited to attend the general reunion of soldiers and sailors of the late war, to be held in Milwaukee June 7-12 next.

Many of you have expressed to me your intentions to do so, and earnestly hope that our regiment may be largely represented on that occasion.

A headquarters for the regiment will, doubtless, be designated by the local committee, of which timely notice will be given.

RAILROAD DOINGS.

The surveyors of the new Northwestern road to Afton left this city this morning, having done with the work here for the present. There is now no doubt but that the road will be pushed right along to completion, and it is asserted that next week the shoveling will commence, and that the road will be in running order in time to give an excursion over it as a Fourth of July celebration.

The surveyors of the Milwaukee & St. Paul company are making a few changes in the last line laid out, running alongside the Northwestern to Afton, en route to B-lot. The surveyors expect to finish up so as to go into Milwaukee to-morrow and report. It remains then for the company to decide whether they will adopt the first line projected from here to Beloit, or the later line via Afton. As soon as that is decided the work of securing the right of way will be proceeded with, and the construction will soon follow.

Pretty and Young.

In every feature but the hair, which had grown white from fever. This lady at 35 balances us: "I have used Parker's Hair Balsam six months and am more than pleased with it. It has restored the natural brown color of my hair and given it a silvery softness, nicer than ever before. There is no Dandruff, no falling hair, and it leaves the scalp so clean and nice and cool that I am ever so much pleased," and I feel and look like myself again." The beautiful, fresh and vigorous hair it produces, together with its property of restoring gray or faded hair to the natural youthful color, and entirely freeing the head from dandruff and itching, surprises no less than it pleases. Sold in large bottles at only 50 cents and $1.00 by all first class druggists.

CITY NOTICES.

From the easy exploration, increased respiratory power of the lungs, and the removal of irritation, manifest from cessation of cough and other alarming symptoms, after using Fellow's Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, it is clear that the formation of tuberculous matter is not only stopped, but that already deposited is being carried away.

WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother in earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. For Holes and Carbuncles.

From Rev. Richard Eedes, of Bolton, Mass.

"For years I was a sufferer from boils, so that my life became worse from their frequent and persistent recurrence. A carbuncle, which ultimately occupied a space of three or four square inches, formed in the small of my back. During its progress large pieces of decomposed flesh were every day or two cut away; and the prostration and general disturbance of the system were great. Before I had recovered from this attack two smaller carbuncles broke out higher up, and I was again threatened with the recurrence of the suffering to it which I had so long been subjected. It was at this time that I commenced taking the PERUVIAN SYRUP; I confess taking it until I had used five bottles; since then I have had nothing of the kind. I attribute this improved state of the system entirely to the PERUVIAN SYRUP; and I feel that I cannot express my obligations to it in terms too strong. For years I was one of the greatest sufferers. Other medicines gave me partial and temporary relief; but this remarkable remedy, with a kind of intuitive sense, went directly to the root of the evil, and did its work with a thoroughness worthy of its established character."
